

Research Collaborators

Andean Democracy Network Researchers- Biographies (Spanish/English)

BOLIVIA

Carlos Toranzo is coordinator of Political and Economic Areas at the Instituto Latinoamericano de Investigaciones Sociales, (ILDIS)- Fundación Friedrich Ebert, Bolivia. He is also Vice-president of Social Strategic Investigation in Bolivia, Dutch Aid Agency; Director of the political supplement, Suplemento Tiempo Politico, La Razón newspaper; a political and economic analyst for several national and international television programs; and research associate of the London School of Economics, Institutions for Pro Poor Growth. He has worked as a consultant with many international organizations such as the UNDP, UNESCO, the World Bank, IDB; and published work in areas of deliberative political processes, anti-poverty strategies, political participation, social and economic policies, governance reform, development strategies, social actors and social movements, amongst others. He holds Masters in Economics and Political Science from University of Chile and National Autonomous University of Mexico, and PhD in Economics from UNAM, Mexico. He has taught and been a researcher at Universidad de Chile, UNAM, UAM, Oxford, University of Manchester, and is also a member of the International Editorial Advisory Board of the Development Policy Review (ODI-Blackwell Publishing).

Eduardo Rodríguez Veltzé. Abogado. Becario del Programa Chevening del Reino Unido. MC en Gestión Pública, Universidad de Harvard. Sub Contralor Legal de la República de Bolivia. Ex Ministro de la Corte de la Corte Suprema de justicia. Ex Presidente de la Corte suprema de Justicia. Ex Presidente constitucional de la República de Bolivia. Profesor e investigador visitante de la Universidad Carlos III, Madrid.

Carlos Romero Bonifaz. Abogado e investigador, trabajó los últimos trece años asesorando a pueblos indígenas, especialmente en demandas de tierras colectivas, Director Ejecutivo del CEJIS entre el año 2000 y 2006, Constiuyente plurinominal por el Departamento de Santa Cruz, Presidente de la Comisión de Tierra, territorio, recursos naturales renovables y medio ambiente, ha publicado libros sobre “Proceso Constituyente”, “Constituciones comparadas y comentadas”, “Temas de la agenda nacional”, además de más de 40 ensayos y presentaciones de libros.

Gonzalo Rojas Ortuste. Coordinador de Investigación del CIDES-UMSA de donde también es Ph.D © en el Doctorado Multidisciplinario en Desarrollo. Lic. en Ciencia Política por la UNAM-México, y master of arts en la misma área por la University of Pittsburgh. Ha sido consultor del INDES-BID, PNUD, FES-ILDIS, de la Fund. K. Adenauer y para la Reforma Constitucional (2001-4). Autor, coautor y coordinador de libros y estudios sobre la democracia, etnicidad, descentralización (Secretaria Nacional de Participación Popular, Bolivia, 1994-97) y las élites.

Moira Zuazo Oblitas. Politóloga boliviana, con estudios de maestría y doctorado en Bolivia y Alemania. Autora de varios libros y artículos publicados en Bolivia Argentina y Alemania . Profesora titular de la Universidad Mayor de San Andrés (UMSA) y Coordinadora de Descentralización y Política Internacional de la Fundación Friedrich Ebert – Instituto Latinoamericano de Investigaciones Sociales (FES – ILDIS).

Roky Marcelo Veneros. Boliviano, nacido en La Paz (1981). Estudió Ciencia Política en la Universidad Mayor de San Andrés, realizó estudios de Diplomado en Educación Superior, Diplomado en Gerencia Pública (UMSA) y Maestría en Descentralización y Gestión Pública en el Post Grado en Ciencias del Desarrollo (CIDES). Ejerció cátedra (2004 – 2005) en el Instituto Normal Superior Sedes Sapientiae de la Universidad Católica Boliviana. Oficia de docente en el Colegio Militar del Ejército y se desempeña como Responsable de Proyectos del Ministerio de Trabajo.

CHILE

Manuel Antonio Garretón is a professor of Sociology at the University of Chile and is former Dean and Director of Centro de Estudios de la Realidad Nacional and Revista Cuadernos de la Realidad Nacional, Universidad Católica de Chile. The focus of his research and teaching is on democratizations and transitions, State and Society, human rights, authoritarianism and democracy, political parties, university and society, gender, culture and education, social movements and actors, social sciences development, public opinion and social demands, Latin American sociological theory, modernity and modernization. Has published more than 250 articles and more than 40 books as author, co-author or editor. Most recent publications include: The Incomplete Democracy: Studies on politics and Society in Latin America and Chile (2003), Encuentros con la memoria (co-editor, 2004), Del post pinochetismo a la sociedad democrática. Política y globalización en el bicentenario (2007).

David Altman (Ph.D. Notre Dame, 2001) is currently Associate Professor at the Political Science Institute of the Catholic University of Chile, and Editor of Revista de Ciencia Política. He works on comparative politics with emphasis on executive-legislative relations in Latin America, the quality of democratic institutions, and mechanisms of direct democracy. His work has appeared in Electoral Studies, Party Politics, The Developing Economies, Democratization, The Journal of Legislative Studies, PS-

Political Science and Politics, among others.

Juan Pablo Luna holds a PhD. in Political Science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is an Associate Professor at the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile. His research focuses on the political sociology of Latin American party systems and the political economy of development and democracy in that region. His recent work has been published in Comparative Political Studies, Latin American Politics and Society, and Política y Gobierno. He has also been published in Revista de Ciencia Política (Chile), is the researcher in charge of the Chilean chapter of the Americas Barometer (LAPOP), and is currently a visiting professor at the PLAS and the Politics Department at Princeton University.

COLOMBIA

Ana Maria Bejarano. Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Toronto. She holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from Columbia University. She previously was professor of Political Science at the Universidad de Los Andes in Bogotá, where she also served as Director of its Center for Social and Legal Research (CIJUS). She co-authored the chapter on Colombia in F. Hagopian and S. Mainwaring (eds.), Advances and Setbacks in the Third Wave of Democratization in Latin America (Cambridge University Press, 2005). Together with Scott Mainwaring and Eduardo Pizarro she recently co-edited The Crisis of Democratic Representation in the Andes (Stanford University Press, 2006). Bejarano is also the author of Precarious Democracies. Explaining Divergent Regime Trajectories in Colombia and Venezuela (Duke University Press, forthcoming). Her current research explores constitution-making in the Andes, focusing on the politics behind constitutional choices and the prospects for democracy in the wake of constitutional change.

Gary W. Hoskin. Professor Emeritus, Los Andes University. He previously served as Director of the Department of Political Science and Director of International Relations at Los Andes University and as Director of Undergraduate Studies at SUNY Buffalo. He is the recipient of several research fellowships and awards from various organizations including the National Endowment for Democracy. His recent publications include: La Reforma Política de 2003: ¿La Salvación de los Partidos Políticos Colombianos? co-editor and co-author (Bogotá: Ediciones Uniandes y Editorial Corcas, 2006) and Colombia 2002: Elecciones, Comportamiento Electoral y Democracia, co-editor and co-author (Bogotá: Editorial Corcas, Department of Political Science, Universidad de Los Andes, 2002). Hoskin's current research focuses on the 2006 elections in Colombia.

Felipe Botero. Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at Universidad de los Andes in Bogotá, Colombia and Editor of Colombia Internacional, published by the same institution. He holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Arizona and a M.A. in Social Sciences from The University of Chicago. His research focuses on legislative institutions and electoral and party systems in Latin America. In his recent work he analyzes the factors that explain political career decisions and duration in the region. He has published recently in Revista de Ciencia Política (Chile), Brazilian Political Science Review, Colombia Internacional, and Legislative Studies Quarterly.

ECUADOR

Simón Pachano. Profesor-Investigador de la Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales, FLACSO, sede Ecuador. Director de la Fundación

Ecuatoriana para la Democracia. Ha sido Director Ejecutivo del Instituto de Estudios Ecuatorianos, IEE e Investigador Principal del Instituto de Estudios Ecuatorianos, IEE, Quito, Ecuador. También se ha desempeñado Director Ejecutivo del Centro de Investigaciones y Estudios Socio Económicos, CIESE. Quito, Ecuador. Ha realizado estudios de doctorado en la Universidad de Salamanca, España. Obtuvo su Master en Sociología CLACSO-PUCE, Quito, Ecuador y su Licenciado en Sociología y Ciencias Políticas, Universidad Central, Quito, Ecuador. Era Visiting Fellow, Kellogg Institute, Universidad de Notre Dame, Indiana, Estados Unidos y había sido profesor en España, Perú, Ecuador, Bolivia y Argentina. Sus publicaciones incluyen: La trama de Penélope. Procesos políticos e instituciones en el Ecuador. (2007) FLACSO-International IDEA-Ágora Democrática-NIMD, Quito. “El sistema de partidos en Ecuador: ¿cambio o colapso?” (2007). En Cheresky, Isidoro (compilador): Elecciones presidenciales y giro político en América Latina. Manatí, Buenos Aires y “Ecuador: Y, “The Provincialization of Representation”. (2006) En Mainwaring, Scott, Ana María Bejarano y Eduardo Pizarro (editores): Crisis of Andean Representation, Stanford.

Santiago Basabe Serrano. Dr. (c) en Ciencia Política (Universidad de San Martín, Buenos Aires - Argentina). Director del Centro de Investigaciones de Política y Economía (CIPEC). Profesor Asociado de la Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales FLACSO Ecuador y de la Universidad Andina Simón Bolívar (Sede Ecuador).

Andrés Mejía Acosta. Governance Fellow, IDS-University of Sussex. Political scientist whose research looks at the roles that formal and informal political institutions play in crafting reform coalitions in Latin America and the Caribbean. Published research includes articles and book chapters on legislative politics, political parties and elections, the politics of the budget process, policymaking and policy outcomes, informal institutions, and democratic governance. He has done consulting work for Club de Madrid, The Carter Center, Eurasia Group, Freedom House, and United Nations Development Program, and the Inter American Development Bank. His current research work looks at the impact of the resource bonanza on the formation of political coalitions and budget outcomes in Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia.

PERÚ

Martín Tanaka. Peruano. Doctor en Ciencia Política y Maestro en Ciencias Sociales por la Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales (FLACSO) sede México; y Licenciado en Sociología por la Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú. Actualmente es investigador asociado en el Instituto de Estudios Peruanos y profesor del Departamento de Ciencias Sociales de la Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú. Es columnista semanal en el diario Perú21. Ha sido Director General del Instituto de Estudios Peruanos (2005-2007), Visiting Fellow en el Helen Kellogg Institute for International Studies de la Universidad de Notre Dame, Indiana (2003) y profesor visitante en la Maestría de Ciencia Política de la Universidad de Los Andes en Bogotá (2002). Temas de investigación: democracia, política y partidos; movimientos sociales y participación ciudadana; cultura política, en Perú y América Latina. Tiene libros y capítulos de libros publicados en el Perú por el Instituto de Estudios Peruanos y la Comisión Andina de Juristas; fuera del Perú, por Cambridge University Press, Stanford University Press, IDEA Internacional, Fundación Pablo Iglesias, Brookings Institution Press (Washington DC), Homo Sapiens eds. (Rosario, Argentina), Lynne Rienner Publishers (Boulder, Colorado), The University of London, el Instituto de Estudios Sociales de la Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (IIS-UNAM), Universidad Iberoamericana, entre otros.

Sofía Vera es bachiller de sociología en la Universidad Católica del Perú. Trabaja actualmente como asistente de investigación en el Instituto de Estudios Peruanos.

Rafael Roncagliolo Orbegoso. Sociólogo, periodista y profesor universitario peruano. Jefe para los países andinos, International IDEA (2005). Secretario Técnico del Acuerdo Nacional (2002 y 2004). Secretario General del movimiento cívico Transparencia, del Perú (1994 - 2002). Presidente de la Asociación Mundial de Radios Comunitarias (AMARC) (1995-1998). Vicepresidente de la Asociación Internacional de Investigadores de la Comunicación (IAMCR/AIERI) (1982-1986). Profesor en el post-grado de sociología de la Universidad Nacional Mayor de San Marcos, del Perú; y en los post-grados de comunicaciones de la Universidad de Lima y la Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú; ex-profesor visitante en la Universidad de Québec en Montréal, la Universidad Iberoamericana de México y la Pontificia Universidad Católica del Ecuador. Ex- - jefe del Departamento de Ciencias Sociales de la PUC del Perú. Ha asesorado grupos de vigilancia electoral y conteos rápidos en República Dominicana, Nicaragua, Venezuela y Guatemala, México, Haití, Honduras y Ecuador. Autor de numerosos libros y artículos sobre comunicaciones, sistemas políticos y análisis electoral y miembro de consejos editoriales de ABLEX, SAGE, FUNDESCO, CIESPAL y revistas especializadas de Canadá, Ecuador, España, Estados Unidos, Holanda, México, Panamá y Perú.

VENEZUELA

Michael Penfold-Becerra is Venezuelan and holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from Columbia University. He specializes in comparative political economy, public policy and public administration. He is currently an associate professor at IESA, Venezuela's leading business and public administration school where he has taught courses in political economy and public policy in Latin America. In 2005, he was Tinker Professor at the School for International and Public Affairs at Columbia University. He was the executive director of Venezuela's Investment Agency (CONAPRI), a non-for-profit funded both by the private and public sector to monitor investment climate in the country and promote institutional reforms. He has travel, written and worked extensively in countries such as Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Puerto Rico and Venezuela. He is the author and editor of three books and several other articles published in edited volumes and international journals. He was a Fulbright scholar and has received a Ford Foundation grant. He was an op-ed contributor for El Nacional between 1999-2006 on current affairs in politics and economics in Venezuela and the Latin America region.

Luis Gómez Calcaño. M. Sc, Universidad Central de Venezuela; D.E.A, EHESS, Paris. He is a professor and researcher at the Socio-Political Area in the Center for Development Studies (CENDES) of the Universidad Central de Venezuela. Research interests include social movements, civil society, socio-political change, relationships between the State and civil society. He recently co-authored the book Populismo autoritario: Venezuela, 1999-2006, with Nelly Arenas.