COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this course, we will take a broad view of a “supply chain.” A firm’s supply chain consists of all operational processes that create value for the firm. Supply chain management therefore involves the coordination of multiple processes. In addition, these value-creating processes are typically fragmented and dispersed across organizational and national boundaries. This fragmentation creates opportunities (e.g. lower costs) but also challenges (e.g. longer lead times). Firms therefore need to find a way to exploit the benefits provided by fragmented supply chains, while making sure that the challenges are managed effectively.

This course will expose students to the challenges involved in managing supply chains and understand the complexity of inter-firm and intra-firm coordination. The goal of the course is to develop a framework to address supply chain management challenges.

COURSE FORMAT

The class meetings will consist largely of discussions and exercises. Some lectures will be given to introduce technical content.

Details of Assessments

Case memo assignments are to be done in groups. These will consist of specific questions that can be answered using the content of the assigned case reading and handed-in online via Canvas. Due dates and times are posted on Canvas.

There will also be quizzes to prepare for class discussions of cases that do not require a case memo. The quizzes are not meant to be tricky, they are mostly just meant to ensure that everyone has read the case. Class discussions are more meaningful when everyone has read the case.

The final reflection is a take-home exercise that asks students to reflect on their learning from class in light of experience and their plans for the future. A detailed description of the assignment is available on Canvas.

Class participation is an integral part of the class. The purpose of evaluating class contribution is to encourage a richer learning environment where the source of knowledge grows from beyond the professor and course materials to include the experience, intuition, and knowledge of the participants. A “good” in-class contribution:

- builds on others’ contributions (preferably referring to the previous contributor by name),
- shares personal experience,
- uses detailed case facts (when appropriate),
- summarizes and clarifies several previous contributions,
- relates to previous discussions and the assigned readings, and
- expresses doubts, concerns, limits of the framework or model.

In class participation is recorded in class by the TA. Students who do not attend receive a 0 (this in no way conflicts with the standard RHL policy on attendance, see below).

For students who have things to share but were not able to speak up during class, there are discussion forums on Canvas where they can post comments, questions, reflections, anecdotes, etc. These posting will be considered in class participation grading. The suggestions for “good” class contributions listed above apply to posts on the discussion forums.

LEARNING MATERIALS

Required: All required materials will be indicated on the Canvas site.

COURSE-SPECIFIC POLICIES AND RESOURCES

Missed or late assignments, and regrading of assessments

Late submissions will not be accepted and will receive a grade of zero.

Academic Concessions

If extenuating circumstances arise, please contact the RHL Graduate School program office as early as reasonably possible, and submit an Academic Concession Request & Declaration Form <https://webforms.sauder.ubc.ca/academic-concession-rhlee>. If an academic concession is granted during the course, the student will be provided options by RHL, or by the instructor in consultation with RHL, per UBC's policy on Academic Concession.

Other Course Policies

- Assessments due prior to a student adding the course will receive the average of their later assessment grades in that category.

POLICIES APPLICABLE TO COURSES IN THE ROBERT H. LEE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Attendance

Excepting extenuating circumstances, students are expected to attend 100% of their scheduled class hours. Absent students limit their own academic potential, and that of their classmates, and cause unnecessary disruption to the learning environment. Students missing more than 20% of the total scheduled class hours for a course (including classes held during the add/drop period) without having received an academic concession will be withdrawn from that course. Withdrawals, depending on timing, could result in a “W” or an “F” standing on the transcript.

COVID-19 Policies for Attendance & Academic Concessions:

If a student feels unwell, they should stay home and send a courtesy email to each impacted instructor and cc their program manager. The student should also submit an Academic Concession Request & Declaration Form.

If a student suspects possible COVID-19 infection, they should use the BC Ministry of Health's self-assessment tool, to help determine whether further assessment or testing for COVID-19 is recommended.

Punctuality

Students are expected to arrive for classes and activities on time and fully prepared to engage. Late arrivals may be refused entry at the discretion of the instructor or activity lead. Students arriving later than halfway through a scheduled class will be treated as absent for that class.

Electronic Devices

Devices such as laptops, tablets, and cell phones are not permitted to be used in class unless directed by the instructor for in-class activities. Students who do not follow the School's policy in this regard may be required to leave the room for the remainder of the class, so that they do not distract others. Research shows that students' use of laptops in class has negative implications for the learning environment, including reducing their own grades and the grades of those sitting around them.

Citation Style

Please use the American Psychological Association (APA) reference style to cite your sources.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES AND RESOURCES

UBC provides resources to support student learning and to maintain healthy lifestyles but recognizes that sometimes crises arise and so there are additional resources to access including those for survivors of sexual violence. UBC values respect for the person and ideas of all members of the academic community. Harassment and discrimination are not tolerated nor is suppression of academic freedom. UBC provides appropriate accommodation for students with disabilities and for religious observances. UBC values academic honesty and students are expected to acknowledge the ideas generated by others and to uphold the highest academic standards in all of their actions. Details of the policies and how to access support are available on the UBC Senate website at <https://senate.ubc.ca/policies-resources-support-student-success>.

Respect for Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion

The UBC Sauder School of Business strives to promote an intellectual community that is enhanced by diversity along various dimensions including status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person, race, ethnicity, gender identity, sexual orientation, religion, political beliefs, social class, and/or disability. It is critical that students from diverse backgrounds and perspectives be valued in and well-served by their courses. Furthermore, the diversity that students bring to the classroom should be viewed as a resource, benefit, and source of strength for your learning experience. It is expected that all students and members of our community conduct themselves with empathy and respect for others.

Academic Integrity

The academic enterprise is founded on honesty, civility, and integrity. As members of this enterprise, all students are expected to know, understand, and follow the codes of conduct regarding academic integrity. At the most basic level, this means submitting only original work done by you and acknowledging all sources of information or ideas and attributing them to others as required. This also means you should not cheat, copy, or mislead others about what is your work. Violations of academic integrity (i.e., misconduct) lead to the breakdown of the academic enterprise, and therefore serious consequences arise and harsh sanctions are imposed. For example, incidences of plagiarism or cheating may result in a mark of zero on the assignment or exam and more serious consequences may apply if the matter is referred to the President's Advisory Committee on Student Discipline. Careful records are kept in order to monitor and prevent recurrences.
