1. 1:28 I was thinking the same as you. I don't know if TyingItAllTogether has the time to reply, so here is my suggestion (I have just started this hobby): Make the knot first. When the heart is finished, mark the rope where it starts at the beginning of the heart and at the lowest loop, or where in the heart you want to add an embellishment. Then unravel the knot, start again exactly from the starting mark, and when you get to the point on the rope where you find your second marker, add the bit you want to. Then keep going until heart is finished. What do you think? :-)) - Machru
2. 3:57 +Machru sounds like a good idea I was thinking I could you use two different colored paracord and put them together to make one so it kinda looks like veins going in and out of it - Ryan Zettlemyer

1. 0:56 :) Thank you :) but, how can it be too much in feet, when that's the same amount in meters? 250 meters is a lot of rope! I think that's too much as well in meters, lol! In the video it's not that long, isn't it? Well, I first have to buy a rope and then see this video 250 times before I can make it :) -- Arúviel Evenstar
2. 1:34 ... and now it's a big round knot. -- meep
3. 2:19 Great meditation! -- RainbowPopsicle
4. 3:04 Very, Very Cool, and you did a great job showing how to do it. I had to rewind the video a few times, but I got it.. Thank You So much for sharing!!! :) it's Awesome.. And Beautiful!!! -- Amy Ludwig
5. 3:41 What do we do with it afterward? -- Julia L
6. 4:11 Get out. -- BitMapJPEG
7. 4:14 what to use? O.o !!! what type of rope? -- liam tab

1. 0:31 I really love you guys! I'm starting to really enjoy these videos! Such great ideas come from relaxing and watching these :) -- saphyrestar1982
2. 3:17 About 2 metres. -- Genta Pallaska
3. 3:39 I suppose it depends on the thickness of the cord, since a thinner cord will produce smaller knots... I wish they would give at least an estimate, though. -- The Bloom Closet
