

HOW TO PLAN YOUR ACADEMIC YEAR

OCTOBER 10, 2017 (TUE)

12:00pm to 1:00pm ■ PCOH 2012

Hosted by Dr. Ashley Pullman and
Dr. Kapil Regmi (EDST Alumni)

How to make your academic year a success? What goals to set and what steps to take? What type of dissertation to plan - a 'traditional' or manuscript-based? What, when and where to publish? Come to this workshop to meet two outstanding experts and EDST alumni: Drs. Ashley Pullman and Kapil Regmi. They will share their stories of accomplishing a PhD in four years and leaving grad school with a respectful number of articles in peer-review journals.

RSVP

<http://blogs.ubc.ca/edstgaa/events/>
Deadline: October 8, 2017

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

Ashley Pullman

Postdoctoral Fellow, Education Policy Research Initiative, University of Ottawa & EDST Alumnus

Dr. Ashley Pullman started her PhD program in 2013. She successfully defended a manuscript-based dissertation, titled “The persistent variation of inequality of outcomes: Three studies of educational stratification,” in September 2017. Ashley received several awards, including the Vanier Canada Graduate Scholarship (2014-2017) and the Donald and Ellen Poulter Scholarship (2016). She is currently a postdoctoral fellow at University of Ottawa’s Education Policy Research Initiative. policy and practice.

Kapil Regmi

Lecturer, Department of Educational Studies, The University of British Columbia & EDST Alumnus

Dr. Kapil Regmi started his PhD program in 2012 and successfully defended his dissertation, titled “Lifelong learning in least developed countries: The case of Nepal,” in May 2017. Kapil held several awards, including the Joseph Katz Memorial Scholarship (2016). Kapil is currently a lecturer in the Department of Educational Studies at UBC.