

Diabetes example

Your invention:

A handheld device that painlessly measures blood glucose levels using your special optical sensing system and no needles.

It is not as accurate as a glucometer (using blood drops), but it can give a reliable indication of "Above normal" and "Below normal".

