

Media Studies (Across the Curriculum)

EDCP 481.951

University of British Columbia

Summer 2a 2015 @ 8:00-10:30 in Scarfe 1106

<http://blogs.ubc.ca/etec/courses-2/edcp-481/> AND <http://wiki.ubc.ca/Edcp481>

Course Description and Valued Ends:

This course focuses on understanding media and associated freedoms of expression and the press for learning, teaching, and public pedagogy. Media studies is a dynamic discipline tailored to exploring youth, culture, and education through concepts or techniques such as articulation, framing, regulation, remediation, representation, and transcoding. In addition to understanding media and the process of meaning-making, media studies also focuses on making and managing media across formats, creative expression, and civic engagement. Making minimal distinction among (the) media of, on, and in education, the course provides a survey of media studies and new media with an emphasis on media education and literacy. Media education and literacy are among the most relevant challenges to “official” knowledge and represent key movements in the sociology of curriculum. Hence, this course balances practice with ethical, legal, and theoretical aspects and emphasizes the design of curriculum and courses for teaching media studies and for integrating media literacy across the curriculum.

Course Aims & Objectives

1. Map media studies and explore its key concepts and techniques.
2. Analyze the convergence of media and education through theoretical framings, legal interpretations and techniques of new media analysis (image, text, sound).
3. Provide a rationale for media education and literacy at all levels—elementary, middle school, high school and adult.
4. Design strategies for civic engagement, community activism, and public pedagogy.
5. Evaluate media education instructional materials and recommend appropriate revisions.
6. Design, produce and select appropriate materials and resources for media education courses.
7. Design and produce curriculum that incorporates and remediates a variety of new media, including image, text, and sound.

Operational Definition of Letter Grade Categories (EDCP, Revised, June 1996)

Letter Grade	Percent Range	Sample Description
A+	90-100	Work of outstanding quality. Demonstrates excellent comprehension of the subject and use of existing literature and research. Consistently applies a high level of critical scrutiny to texts and discussions. Frequently articulates innovative ideas based on a broad background. Shows a high degree of personal engagement with the topic. Consistently integrates broad orientations towards curriculum with particular lesson objectives and instruction and assessment strategies
A	85-89	Demonstrates good comprehension of the subject. Is able on occasion to articulate original critical insights. Good use of existing knowledge in the subject. Shows personal involvement in the work. Understands the relationships among broad curriculum orientations, lesson objectives and instruction and assessment strategies
A-	80-84
B+	76-79	Work of good quality with no major weaknesses. Demonstrates good comprehension of the subject. Is able on occasion to articulate original critical insights. Good use of existing knowledge in the subject. Shows personal involvement in the work. Understands the relationships among broad curriculum orientations, lesson objectives and instruction and assessment strategies
B	72-75	Fair comprehension of the subject. Shows few original critical insights. Background knowledge may have significant deficits. Minimal personal involvement in the work. Inconsistently integrates broad curriculum orientations, lesson objectives and instruction and assessment strategies.
B-	68-71
C+	64-67	Minimally adequate work, barely at a passing level. Serious flaws or deficits in understanding. Unable to integrate broad curriculum orientations, lesson objectives and instruction and assessment strategies.
C	60-63
C-	55-59
D	50-54	Failing work. Inadequate for successful completion of the course or submitted beyond final date of acceptance.
F	0-49

Participation

Participation is valued at 20% of your final grade. We refer to scholarly levels of participation as academic conversation, which entails a variety of things including articulation and presentation. Participation is interdependent with preparation for each class, which involves reading (highlighting, pagination post-its, margin notes, comments & questions, etc.), writing (note-taking, outlining, questioning, defining, mapping, framing, summarizing, journaling, blogging, podcasting, exposition, etc.), organizing (documenting, labeling, ordering, archiving, filing, sequencing events, chronicling, etc.), reflecting (rethinking, reincorporating, remapping, analyzing, synthesizing, etc.), and speaking (discussing, corresponding with peers, chat, etc.). Complete all readings and participate fully in Lectures/Discussions. (20%)

2. Puppet Theater Video OR Public Service Announcement (PSA)

- a. Puppet Theater Video: Plan, script, perform, video, and broadcast (e.g., YouTube) a marionette or puppet skit appropriate to a chosen level of students and topic (e.g., cyberbullying). The video could provide a way for children to explore moral dilemmas or explore academic issues. Format: 3-5 minutes in length. Ideally, the video should be a convergence of analog and digital media (i.e., 3D puppet theater video digitally recorded and edited). Be sure to align with Codes of Ethics. (Groups of 4) (25%)

Puppetry Resources:

- <http://breadandpuppet.org>
- b. Public Service Announcement (PSA): Plan, script, perform, video, and broadcast (e.g., YouTube, Vine) a PSA that addresses an issue and delivers a message relevant to you and your age group. Develop an idea, storyboard, script, film, and edit for airing on YouTube or Vine. Various media provide air time to promote public service messages. Format: PSA must be 30-60 seconds in duration. Be sure to align your PSA with the CBC's Guidelines. (Groups of 4) (25%)

The PT or PSA videos should reflect your creative and thoughtful engagement with the challenge or problem. The videos should be engaging (e.g., dramatic, humorous, serious, punchy, cheeky, etc.) and designed to inspire dialogue, and pedagogical to address challenges for students and teachers.

3. Media Study Guide (Film / Theatre / TV Series / Game Study Guide): Contribute a section to a book created by EDCP 481 peers. Choose a film / theatre show, TV series, or video game that a) is coordinated with your peers; b) is appropriate, appealing, and relevant to students at either the grades 8-10 or 11-12 levels (if there are students wishing to design for the elementary level, please speak with the Instructor); c) addresses key concepts in media education. The study guide should be written for 8-10 or 11-12 students and include the following elements: (Groups of 4) (30%)
- Introduction: Introduce your topic and its learning outcomes.
 - Key Concept/s: What key concepts does this emphasize and reinforce?
 - Content @ Image, Sound & Text: Write effective text and insert appropriate images or reference sound files to give meaning to the topic.
 - Focus Questions: State questions that are both direct and open-ended to draw students into the content and lead them toward inquiry and thought.
 - Activities: Provide 1-2 activities that actively involve the students and provide an experiential and media production dimension.
 - Sources for Further Study: Include sources that provide students with a means of following up on the topic.
 - Study Guide Format: Use graphic design and desktop publishing principles and software for laying out the final draft (4-5 colour pages).

Key Concepts of Media Education

1. All media are constructions. This is arguably the most important concept. The media do not simply reflect external reality. Rather, they present carefully crafted constructions that reflect many decisions and are the result of many determining factors. Media Literacy works towards deconstructing these constructions (i.e., to taking them apart to show how they are made).
2. The media construct reality. The media are responsible for the majority of the observations and experiences from which we build up our personal understandings of the world and how it works. Much of our view of reality is based on media messages that have been preconstructed and have attitudes, interpretations, and conclusions already built in. Thus the media, to a great extent, give us our sense of reality.
3. Audiences negotiate meaning in media. If the media provides us with much of the material upon which we build our picture of reality, each of us finds or "negotiates" meaning according to individual factors: personal needs and anxieties, the pleasures or troubles of the day, racial and sexual attitudes, family and cultural background, moral standpoint, and so forth.
4. Media messages have commercial implications. Media literacy aims to encourage awareness of how the media are influenced by commercial considerations, and how they impinge on content, technique, and distribution. Most media production is a business, and so must make a profit. Questions of ownership and control are central: a relatively small number of individuals control what we watch, read and hear in the media.
5. Media messages contain ideological and value messages. All media products are advertising in some sense proclaiming values and ways of life. The mainstream media convey, explicitly or implicitly, ideological messages about such issues as the nature of the good life and the virtue of consumerism, the role of women, the acceptance of authority, and unquestioning patriotism.
6. Media messages contain social and political implications. The media have great influence in politics and in forming social change. Television can greatly influence the election of a national leader on the basis of image. The media involve us in concerns such as civil rights issues, famines in Africa, and the AIDS epidemic. They give us an intimate sense of national issues and global concerns so that we have become McLuhan's Global Village.
7. Form and content are closely related in media messages. As Marshall McLuhan noted, each medium has its own grammar and codifies reality in its own particular way. Different media will report the same event, but create different impressions and messages.
8. Each medium has a unique aesthetic form. Just as we notice the pleasing rhythms of certain pieces of poetry or prose, so we ought to be able to enjoy the pleasing forms and effects of the different media.
