

Conversations in Anthropology:

'The Risks and Values of Development in Northern Canada'

When: March 14th, 2013, 6-9 PM

Where: Michael M. Ames Theatre at the Museum of Anthropology, UBC, 6393 N.W. Marine Drive Vancouver, B.C

Who: Speakers include Dr. Bruce Miller, anthropology; Rick Ouellet, First Nations Studies; Caleb Behn, environmental law and sustainability; Dr. Ralph Matthews, sociology, social and economic development and public policy; Joe Foy, National Campaign Director for the BC Wilderness Committee; Dr. Janis Sarra, law and economics

We cordially invite you to the first annual 'Conversation in Anthropology'. Organized by the graduate students in UBC's Department of Anthropology with the goals of disseminating scholarship and generating thoughtful discussion around complex issues in our world, we provide a venue for interdisciplinary exploration of these issues.

This year's conversation centers around issues related to resource development and industrialization in Canada's north and its value to and impact on local communities, including those of First Nations.

The event will be a monitored panel discussion with Q & A. There will be a reception with complementary snacks and refreshments beginning at 8 PM.

FOLLOW US ONLINE

anthropologydebate.blogspot.ca

@converse\_anthro

a place of mind
THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

