

Three Definitions Peer Review

To: Jenny Zhu, ENGL 301 Student
From: Jobina Tamminga, ENGL 301 student
Date: September 23, 2019
Subject: Review of your Three Definitions

I have reviewed your Three Definitions assignment and I must say I was very impressed. I thought that your expanded description was very clear and I felt as though I really understood the topic at the end of the description.

Introduction: I thought that your introduction was concise and explained the goal of the assignment very well. I would suggest moving the last sentence to the beginning since it is quite broad and does not transition into the next section very well, though it would be a great way to start the introduction.

Organization: Overall, I thought that your ideas flowed smoothly and was organized in a logical manner. I did find that there were a few parts in the expanded definition that did not tie some of the facts together very well. In the history section of the expanded definition when you talk about “studying infants during a heat wave” I do not think that the sentence is necessary since it does not add any new information about Cystic Fibrosis.

Research: I thought that your reference list was quite extensive and was well researched. I did find a few places that could use a citation such as in the misconceptions of cystic fibrosis section, when you mention the average life expectancy of those with cystic fibrosis.

Visuals/Font: I really like your use of images in your definitions. I thought that both of the images you used were helpful and added to the overall understanding of cystic fibrosis. I did think that Figure 1 could be a bit larger as it was difficult to read the information.

I hope my recommendations are helpful as you complete this assignment and continue in this course. Your assignment is already in a great condition, and with a few minor tweaks it will be even better. Please let me know if you have any questions.