

ACM Environmental is a multidisciplinary consulting firm providing indoor air quality, hazardous materials, occupational hygiene, safety, and soil contamination consulting services. ACM provides a dynamic and entrepreneurial environment, engaging in stimulating projects throughout the lower mainland. We offer exciting growth opportunities with training and mentorship towards careers focused in technical, management, and project management areas.

We are currently seeking an individual to join our team in order fulfill the entry level position of a Laboratory Analyst.

Cover letters and resumes may be sent/addressed to:

David Kwan
ACM Environmental Corporation
Suite 217 – 2323 Quebec Street
Vancouver, BC
V5T 4S7
david@acmenvironmental.com

We would like to thank all applicants for their submissions; however, only selected candidates will be contacted for interviews.

Laboratory Analyst (Full Time)

The Laboratory Analyst is responsible for all aspects of laboratory analysis. This includes equipment, process, quality control, training, execution of lab analysis, and results reporting. Analytical training will be provided.

Note: this position may lead to future opportunities in field work

Responsibilities:

- Daily routine asbestos bulk and airborne asbestos fibre counting analysis (microscopic analysis)
- Equipment purchasing
- Equipment maintenance
- Following Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs)
- Maintaining current knowledge of regulations and industry standards with respect to sample analysis
- Administering laboratory Quality Control program
- Documentation of results
- Calibrating and maintaining laboratory equipment

Qualifications:

- A minimum of a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry, Biology, Biochemistry, Environmental Science or related field
- Strong ability to follow good laboratory practices (GLP)
- Knowledge of WorkSafeBC Occupational Health and Safety Regulations
- Comfortable using microscopes
- Strong verbal and written communication skills
- Good command of the English language
- Strong customer service skills
- Strong teamwork skills
- Proven problem solving skills
- Detail oriented
- Enthusiastic and versatile, willing to take on responsibility

