THE LEGAL SCHOLAR COLLOQUIUM:

Why and How to Become a Law Professor Advice for JDs and LLMs

The path to becoming a law professor is strewn with unspoken norms and expectations. This presentation says the quiet bits out loud by outlining what it is law professors do, and what law students might like to think about now if they're curious about a future career in legal academia.

The advice is primarily directed at J.D. and LL.M. students, but anyone is welcome to attend.

If you think you might want to be a law professor in the future, come along to hear, discuss and ask questions.

Samuel Beswick

Assistant Professor, Peter A. Allard School of Law

Assistant Professor Samuel Beswick is a private law scholar with primary research interests in the areas of torts, unjust enrichment, limitations, remedies, and privacy. His current research concerns the temporal scope of judicial changes in the law. Dr. Beswick has published his research in leading common law journals, and has presented at workshops and conferences across North America and in the United Kingdom. He is the editor of the open access coursebook, Tort Law: Cases and Commentaries (2021 CanLIIDocs 1859). He has held teaching positions at Harvard Law School, King's College London, and the University of Auckland.
