

THE LEGAL SCHOLAR COLLOQUIUM SERIES:

The Law School Research-Track Job Markets—Advice for PhDs and LLMS

The path to becoming a law professor is strewn with unspoken norms and expectations. This lunchtime seminar on The Law School Research-Track Job Markets will say the quiet bits out loud by exploring what practical early steps graduate students can take to position themselves for an academic job, and what a tenure-track professorship application package looks like. If you think you might want to be a law professor in the future, come along to hear, discuss, and ask questions.

The Legal Scholar Colloquium Series is sponsored in part by the Graduate Program. Please RSVP no later than October 12 (and make us aware of any dietary restrictions) by emailing Lindsay Massara at LMassara@student.ubc.ca if you plan to attend in person as we are planning to provide lunch.
