

Prognostication Statement

Entering UBC is a bit daunting and I am at this time unable to see clear what the next four years will bring. The end result seems hidden behind piles of books. The huge lecture halls are inviting and intimidating at the same time. I know that in this amazing place the tools and skills for success are available to me. I do believe that this University has the best resources and teachers for me to draw from. After spending a year travelling and working in different countries I am ready to spend time at a desk indulging my brain's neurons.

As my degree unfolds so will the bases of my knowledge and understanding. Hopefully my interactions with my fellow students will brighten my days and will hone my social skills. Good communication is very important to me.

Passionate and knowledgeable teachers can inspire and make the learning of a subject fun. I am finding out already what a difference an inspired teacher makes. My wish is that I will find many such teachers through the years. Adding a bit of humour to a dry subject such as Economics makes a difference.

Volunteering, taking electives and joining clubs outside of my degree should allow me to gain a wider base. I want to make the years at UBC count. I realize the many opportunities being offered. The Aqua Society sparks my interest and I plan on joining it. Diving has been a long standing wish of mine. One day I hope to become a diving instructor on some remote and beautiful tropical island.

My career path is not set in stone. I am curious myself where my interests will lie at graduation time.
