

#ubcpsyc325
PSYC 325 with Dr. Rawn
Psychology of Self in Social Media

*Vote for Impact Project weighting on Piazza.
Current response rate 75%.*

Please sit with your working groups.
Have a copy of today's article ready.

Syllabus: <http://blogs.ubc.ca/psychsocialmedia>

Meetings: Tuesday & Thursday 11-12:20, BUCH A201

Agenda

- 11:00-11:10 Check in on Participation
- Exploring theme reading
 - Phenomenon of Trolling
 - Personality and Dark Tetrad
 - Personality and self

Check in on 5% Participation

- Anchor in what's most objectively measurable:
Algorithm for Piazza, Twitter
 - Piazza: # days online + # posts read + 2*# contributions
 - Also note I can delete posts that are non-posts just there to get logged.
 - Twitter: total number of meaningful contributions using hashtag (TAs count?)
- Adjustment: What I have observed as verbal participation in class large group
- Questions about Twitter? Piazza?
 - Great way to study: read past posts about the readings on Piazza
 - Tweeting with a hashtag is like raising your hand to say, hey I'm part of this conversation.

Today's topic: Trolling

- “As the article explains, trolling is the practice of deliberately acting in a deceptive, destructive, or disruptive way, on the Internet, with the sole purpose of eliciting anger or annoyance from others. In other words, trolls will use clever tactics to purposely try to make other people on the Internet look stupid.” Brittany A

FACEBOOK

Rob [redacted] Weird discovery of the day. If you type a word in Facebook (in a comment, status, etc.) that happens to be the same as your password, after you click "Share," Facebook automatically converts it to asterisks to protect your security. Allow me to demonstrate. My password is "**".

3 hours ago · Comment · Like

Liesl [redacted] *****

2 hours ago

Liesl [redacted] Weird! It totally works.

2 hours ago

Jeremy [redacted] megaman3

2 hours ago

Heather [redacted] iheartbieber

2 hours ago

Sandi [redacted] my password is 76trombones

2 hours ago

TROLLS

Now available in Facebook addition!

 Deanna Unruh ▶ Target ✓
51 mins · 🌐

FYI: we will be purchasing our bike equipment from Walmart because we think removing boys/girls distinctions is unnecessary makes a statement we do not agree with.

👍 Like 💬 Comment ➦ Share

3 people like this. Most Relevant ▾

 Write a comment...

 Ask ForHelp Well, Deanna. We're sorry to hear that. Good luck with your new relationship with walmart. Be careful, we hear they sell bikes without the seats on them.
Like · Reply · 👍 7 · 43 mins · Edited

 Deanna Unruh Wow. Nice customer service.
Like · 9 mins

-- ISU NON Y.

- <https://youtu.be/Z2JRpGt1nY0>
- “In this video, a player going by the alias "KirmitTHEfrog" convinces an 11 yr old boy that he can help "glitch" his Destiny characters ("aka" Guardians) into becoming stronger if he allows him momentary access to his account. The boy agrees to this and KirmitTHEfrog takes control. Once the boy isn't looking, KirmitTHEfrog goes on to delete the boy's characters. The boy is reduced to tears the moment he realizes what just happened.” – Michael S

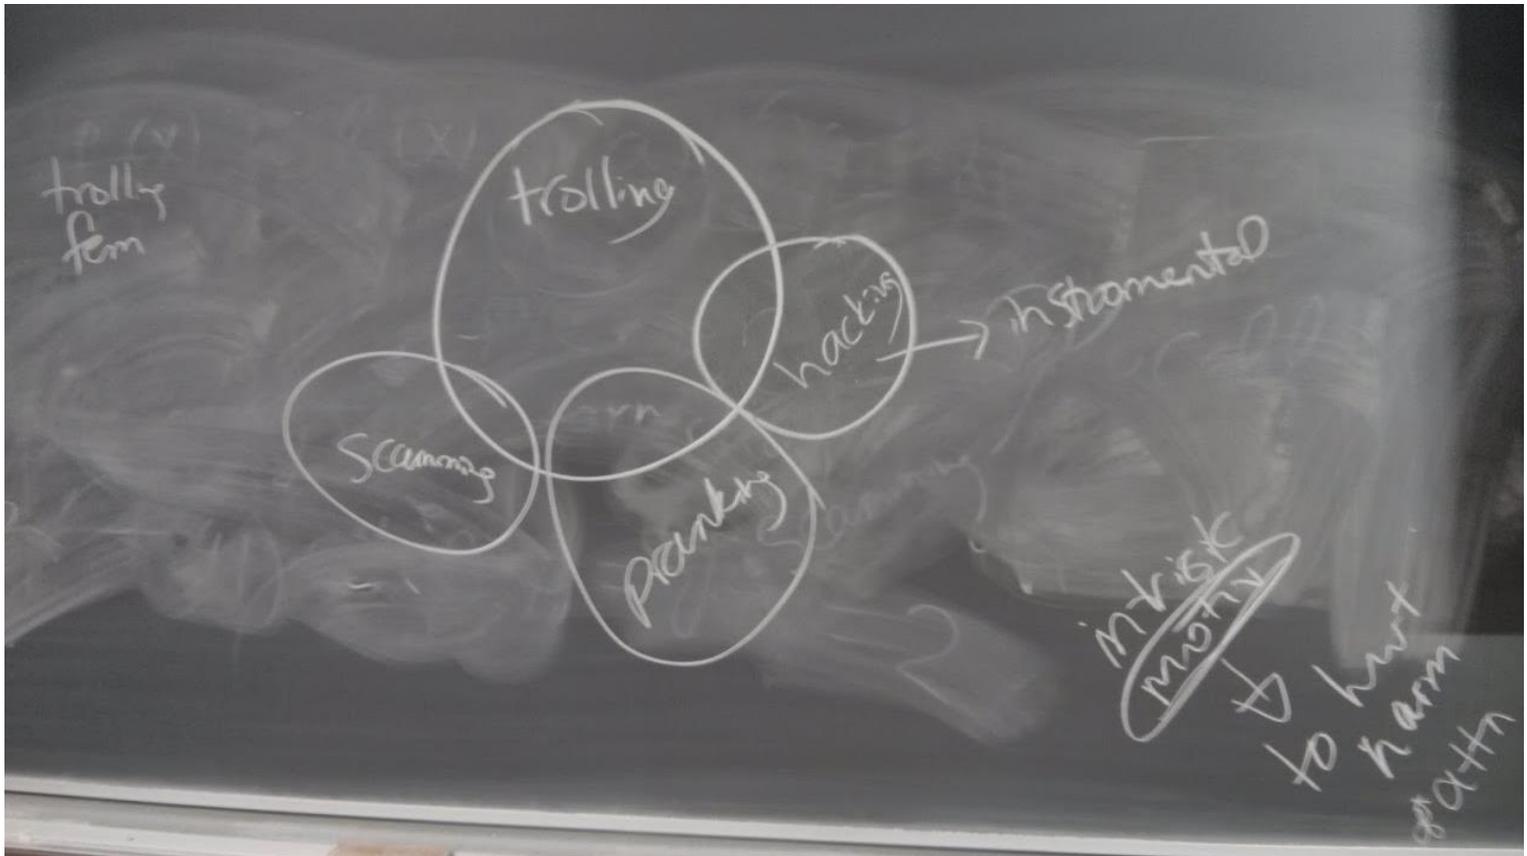

Defining Trolling

- Definition from article
 - “Online trolling is the practice of behaving in a deceptive, destructive, or disruptive manner in a social setting on the Internet with no apparent instrumental purpose.” – pp. 97
- By this definition, would this count as Trolling?
 - “How I Infiltrated a White Pride Facebook Group and Turned It into 'LGBT Southerners for Michelle Obama’”
 - http://www.vice.com/en_ca/read/virgil-texas-white-power-facebook-group-troll

Defining Trolling

- “Deception can be implemented by "trolls" in a harmful way, but I also think they are ways to use deception that don't have to be particularly negative. For example, the online practice of "rick-rolling" other users with a link, then sending them to a video of Rick Astley, would fall under this article's definition of trolling because of the deception and also because there doesn't seem to be any instrumental reason for this. However, I don't think this kind of activity would be as strongly linked to sadism as something like deleting someone's game characters (see Michael's example above). Personally, when I get rick-rolled I think it's pretty funny.” – Marisa G

Exploring concept of trolling. What behaviours count?

Linking to Personality Traits

Big Five

Dark Tetrad

Dark Tetrad

Del Paulhus & colleagues

Shared: Callousness, lack of empathy; extroverted & sociable (tend toward good first impressions)

- Narcissism: Grandiose self-promoters who continually crave attention
- Macchiavellianism: Master manipulators, white collar crime
- Psychopathy: high callousness, impulsivity, manipulativeness, grandiosity
- Everyday Sadists: callous, enjoy cruelty; not impulsive or manipulative

Everyday Sadism

- Buckels, Jones, & Paulhus (2013). Behavioral confirmation of everyday sadism. Psychological Science.
 - Volunteer to kill bugs at greater rates than nonsadists
 - Willing to work for the chance to hurt an innocent person

Exploring the results

- How are Dark Personalities related to trolling behaviour?
- How are Dark Personalities related to enjoyment of trolling?
- Diagrams
 - Regression (see 3.2.1)
 - Mediation (see 3.2.2)

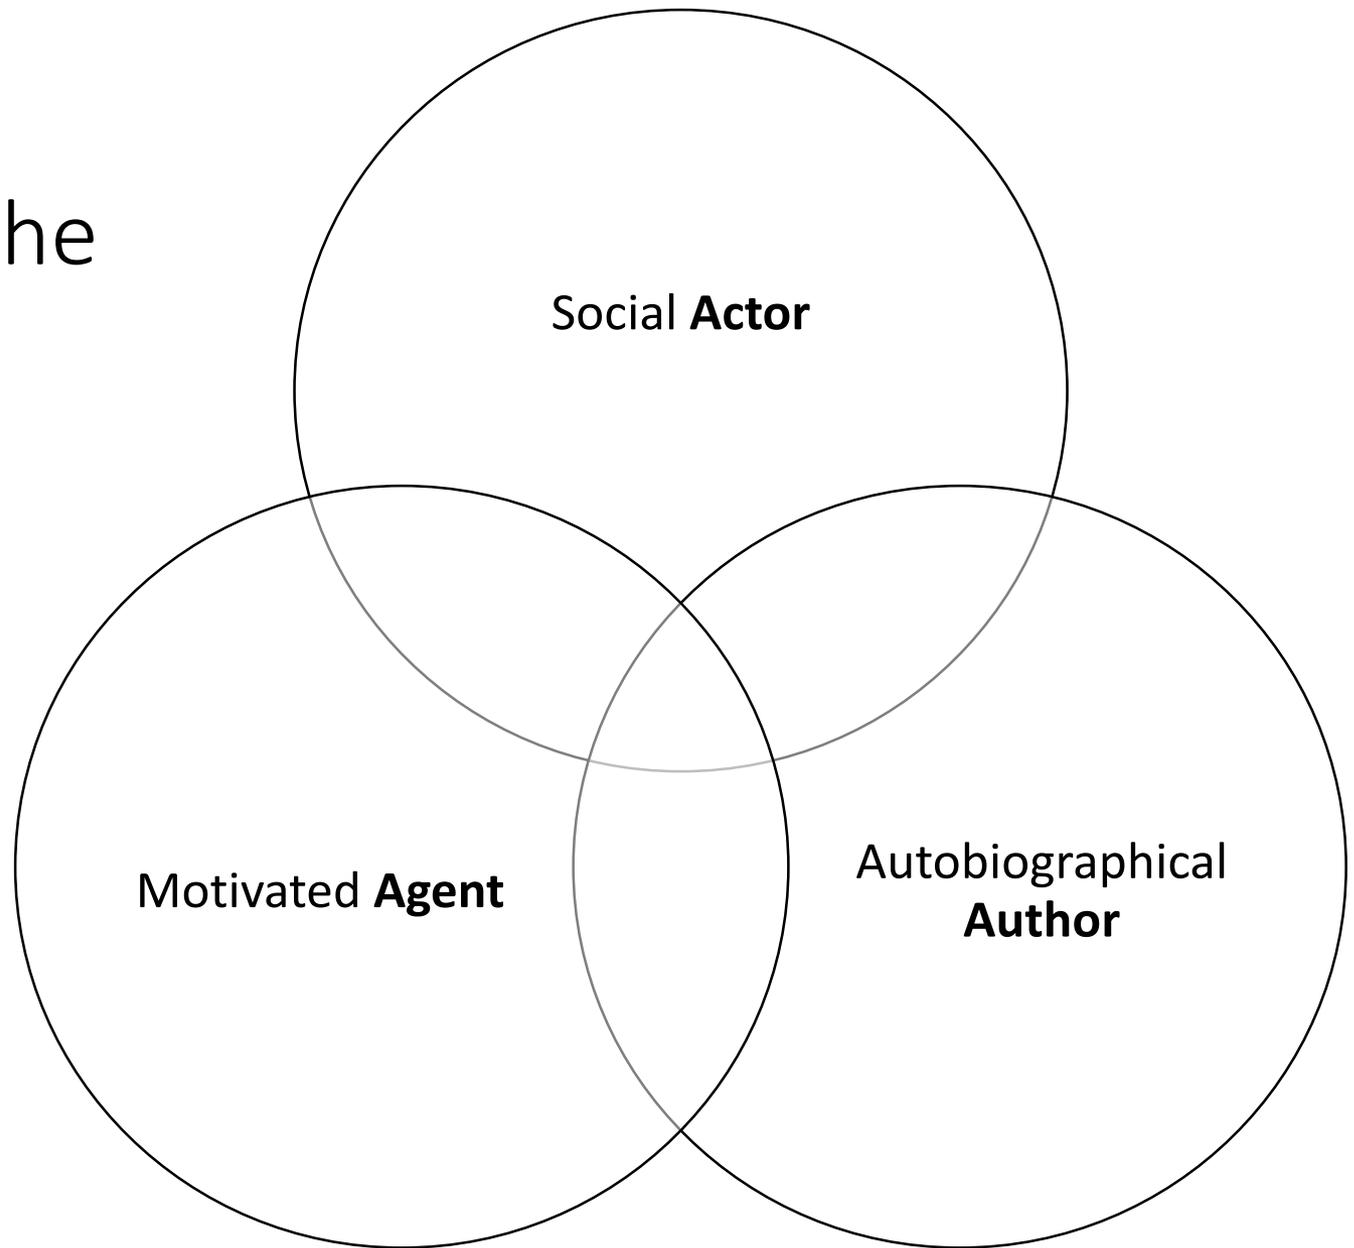

Regression model

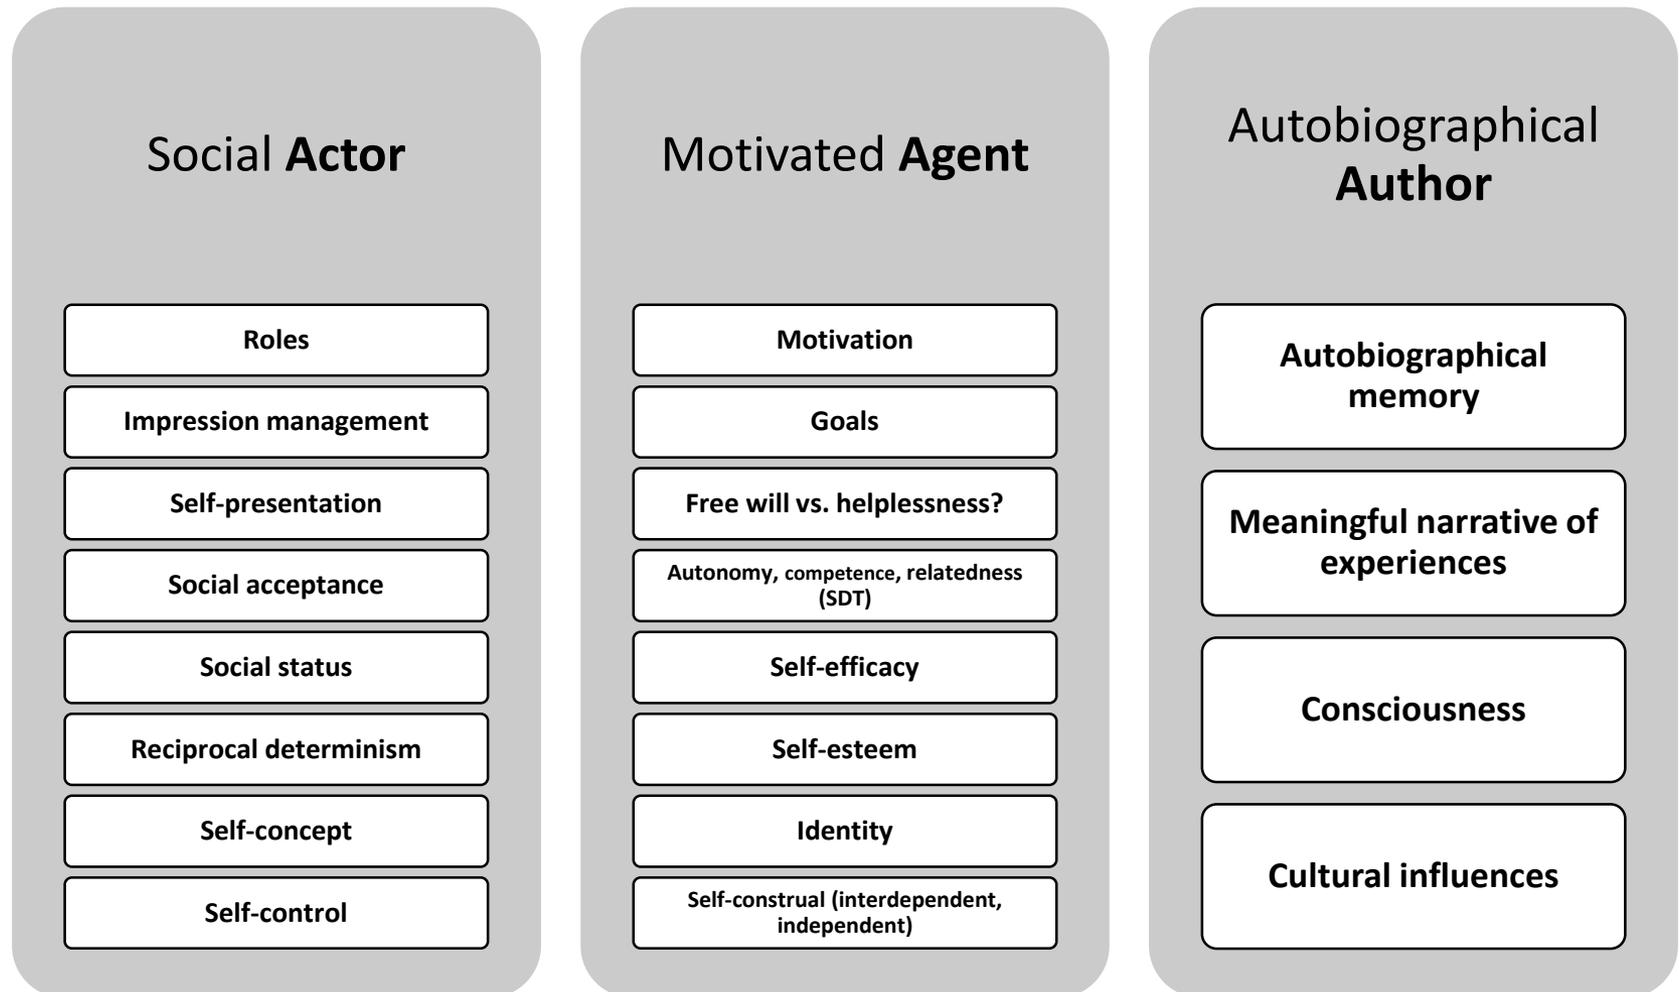

How might you incorporate variables in this article into a model of Self?

- Where might personality fit in Self?
- Is there room in your model of Self for Dark Personality traits? For the Big Five?
- Consider:
 - How does personality influence behaviour?
 - How might those behaviours affect other aspects of self?
- How might victimization affect Self?
- Reminders of models...

What is the SELF?

Overview of the theory of Self by McAdams & Cox

McAdams <http://nobaproject.com/modules/self-and-identity>, elaborated in McAdams & Cox (2010) Self and Identity Across the Lifespan.

The Nature and Structure of the Self: An Overview

Baumeister (1999)

