

Introduction and Overview

This Student Lab Guide – Research Manual outlines, in a step-by-step fashion, the complete process of your team research project. You will be given class time on Thursdays to meet as a team and to work on each stage of your research project. Deadline due dates for each stage are listed in the syllabus for this course. This manual contains all the information you will need to work on your team project at a self-paced basis. This will allow you to plan your team meetings and utilize your time more efficiently. You will be able to move ahead without waiting for further instructions from your professor and graduate co-instructors if you choose to do so. Please do check in with your professor and/or your graduate co-instructor(s) though as you move through your project. They are there to guide you and are happy to do so!