Why are/aren't landslides important?
- It can kill you, make you homeless.
- You prob have to pay more taxes to repair damage.

Landslides are important because they destroy infrastructure & kill people, and we are not being smart about where we build houses so we are susceptible

Landslides are important, because it is affects not only human lifes but also infrastructure; making our life difficult or inconvenient.

Why are landslides imp

landslides are important because they are an easily preventable disaster but cause loss of life and millions of dollars in damage.