Dear Kieran Collery,

I hope all is well and you are enjoying the new job! Congratulations again and I look forward to hearing about it. Relatedly, I am applying for a Java Developer co-op position and I believe a recommendation from you would greatly help my application prospects.

This position is with Elastic Path, a Vancouver-based ecommerce software company that focuses on innovative tech solutions, analytical thinking, and community perspectives. As a computer scientist and acting project manager familiar with my work, I feel your insights are especially relevant in this realm.

Specifically, Elastic Path looks for developers who are:
- Adept in communication and version control systems
- Experienced solving complex object-oriented problems using Java
- Passionate about learning and fearless in trying new solutions

Incorporating my fulfillment of these aspects into the reference letter will help strengthen my case, as will elaborating on my contributions to the course tutorial teams, final project, and others' learning. These help to demonstrate my work ethic, programming abilities, and community focus.

I plan to include the reference letter in my application package, so please send the letter to me directly at wes.berry1@gmail.com. For your reference, I need to submit the application by April 15, 2016. Additionally, here is a link to my LinkedIn profile for easy perusal of my experiences and interests. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions!

Thank you very much and I feel that our experiences working together will hugely benefit my success in this position! Your perspectives will strongly contribute to my application and I sincerely appreciate you taking the time to provide a reference!

All the best,

Wesley Berry
